Surrender of Fort Hudson Commanded.

Celebration of the Event in New Orleans.

Later from Charleston—Siege Progressing Favorably.

New York, July 17.

About three o'clock today the military were withdrawn from the scene of last night's fighting.

Over 200 houses had previously been destroyed, and a quantity of arms were found.

The military still maintain a cordon in the vicinity of the city.

Gen. Kilpatrick had a long conference with Gen. Saxton today.

In reference to arrivals of cavalry from Washington to patrol the city.

Gen. Saxton has ordered all liquor stores in the vicinity of the Arsenal closed for three days.

The military remain in the vicinity with a strong guard of military, but there is no probability they will have to be used.

A dozen persons, who attempted to extort money from James B. Taylor, at his residence in Georgia street, were arrested.

The military still maintain a cordon in the vicinity of the city.

The persons captured in the city are 30 in number. It is not positively known when they will be released.

When it does, the government will have not less than 50,000 troops in New York.

All perfectly quiet.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.

The Washington Star says, as we go to press to-day, Pennsylvania Avenue is wild with a rumor alleging the reception by Government troops of the fugitive John Morgan.

It is stated that Morgan has been captured here by the military.

A dispatch received this morning from Gov. Tilden says that Morgan has been captured.

The local citizens of New Orleans are about celebrating the event with a great torch-light procession.

No men in made of any of Grant's troops reaching Fort Hudson.

New York, July 18.

The steamer Locust, Point, from New Orleans, 11th, has arrived.

The 8th of the 8th anniversary the unconditional surrender of Fort Hudson on the 17th.

With five thousand prisoners and fifty pieces of artillery. The capture had been a complete success.
